[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO MARCH 16.

INSURRECTION IN PARIS.

Proclamation to the Paris Malcontents.

LONDON, March 19.—Thiers has issued a proclamation. He appeals to the malcontents of Montmartre, and assures them that force will be used at all hazards.

A Crisis Impending in Paris.

LONDON, March 19, 3 A. M.—Events of the most unfortunate character have taken place in Paris, and the situation is hourly becoming graver. The Government, following up the proclamation of President Thiers, at midnight, Friday, sent detachments of troops and gen d'armes to occupy the position of the insurgents at Montmartre. A considerable number of cannon were removed, and the gen d'armes made four hundred prisoners. In the morning the National Guards of Belleville and Montmartre, with many unarmed soldiers of the line, arrived and released the prisoners. General Vinoy, who was in command of the Government forces, had posted a cordon of troops around the hill of Montmartre, and posted mitrailleuses at the approaches, and prevented all persons from ascending the hill. Batteries of mitrailleuses were soon surrounded by angry groups, who demanded to know why the authorities distrusted the people, and if it was their intention to massacre them. Soon a general fraternization commenced. People were allowed to draw the mitrailleuses aside and ascend the heights. Soldiers on the summit fraternized with the Nationals, who were guarding the cannon which were still in their possession.

As fresh troops arrived the people shouted, "reverse arms," and the order was obeyed. At 10 o'clock the Nationals held the ground again, and prevented all unarmed people from going up the hill. At the same hour a serious conflict took place in the Place Regalo. Some artillerymen and chasseurs were surrounded by an angry mob. An officer of the chasseurs, while endeavoring to disengage his horse from the crowd, drew his sabre and was instantly dragged from his horse and killed. A melee followed, and an artilleryman and two Nationals were wounded. The fighting soon ceased. Soldiers abandoned their posts and mingled with the crowd, distributing among them their cartridges and chassepots. The artillerymen suffered the people to remove two mitrailleuses.

At 11 o'clock many battalions of the National Guard fully organized marched into Montmartre, shouting, "Vive la Republic!" The district was then wholly in the possession of the Nationals, the soldiers having deserted.

The purposes of the insurgents are still indefinite. The main object just now is resistance to the Government. The crowds in Montmartre and Belleville are unanimous in their clamors against the Assembly at Bordeaux. They demand its immediate dissolution and the election of a new body which shall sit in Paris.

Gen. Faron was surrounded for several hours by the mob in Montmartre. His troops proved faithful; they charged and took three barricades, using the bayonet, and finally cut their way out and escaped at 4 P. M.

It is reported that Generals Lecompte and Clement Thomas, the latter formerly Commander-in-Chief of the National Guards, who were captured in the morning, had been shot by the insurgents after a summary trial. The news spreads consternation throughout the city.

Vinoy's staff and troops of the line and the entire force of gen d'armes have retired to the left of the Seine, leaving the National Guards to restore order. On the right the Nationals have assembled at various points.

Executions in Paris.

PARIS, March 19.—The journals this morning confirm the report of the execution of Generals Lecompte and Clement Thomas after their capture. They [illegible] Rue [illegible] Roscoirs, in Montmartre, where the revolutionary committee held its sittings, and, after a brief trial, condemned to death and taken out and shot.

Later Regarding the Riots.

LONDON, March 19, 8 P. M.—Special dispatches say Gen. Vinoy has also been captured. The report has not been confirmed and is not credited.

LATER, 10:30 P. M.—The rioters at Montmartre have [illegible] and now occupy the staff and general headquarters and buildings of the National Guards of Paris in the Place of Vendome.

The Echo of Parliament says that in consequence of the disturbances in Paris the Emperor William has provisionally stopped the movement of German troops.

At Paris, on Friday in the morning, troops succeeded in capturing forty cannon in Montmartre. Of these the people retook five without fighting, the remainder being removed to a place of safety.

The rebels killed, cut up and ate the horse of the staff officer who was surrounded and made prisoner.

The rebels are now building additional barricades in Montmartre, Belleville and Faubourg St. Antone.

Proclamation of the Paris Rioters.

PARIS, March 19.—The Nationals have placarded two proclamations. The first says the French people have awaited calmly until an attempt was made to touch the Republic. The army did not raise hands against the liberties of the Republic, but only against the Government.

The people of Paris are convoked for communes, signed by the Central Committee of the National Guard.

The second says you have entrusted us with the defense of the rights of Paris. We have driven out the Government that betrayed us. Our mission fulfilled we now report to you to prepare for commune elections. Give us as the only response the establishment of a real Republic. Thirty signatures are appended.

The official proclamation of the Committee assuming the name of Central has been distributed throughout the city. It says the men of the barricades have taken possession of the Ministry of Justice and assassinated Generals Thomas Clements and Lecompte, who are members of the Committee. Let all who have regard for honor and the interest of France rally around the Republic and Assembly. Signed by the Ministers at present in Paris.

General Dispatches.

LONDON, March 19—11:30 P. M.—A dispatch just received from Dieppe announces that Prussians from Amiens, who have arrived there, occupy half the town. The French garrison hold the other half.

BRUSSELS, March 19.—The Etoile Belge learns that the French government has negotiated a loan with Rothschilds for two million francs at five per cent. interest.

MADRID, March 19.—King Amadeus returned to Madrid to-day, accompanied by the Queen.

Further Details.

LONDON, March 20.—The Times' special says respectable Parisians are stupified. General Lecompte was abandoned by his troops and arrested on the heights. Thomas was arrested on the plain. Thomas' last word was "cowards." He fell at the first discharge.

The Telegraph's special says gen d'armes fired upon the Nationals; the latter returned the fire and several were wounded. Vinoy has been mobbed. The mob is triumphant and virtually possessed of the city. Drunkenness is rampant. Women are armed. Gen. Chanzy has arrived but was arrested by the Montmartreists, and it is said he will be shot to-day. All notabilities are flying from Paris.

Dispatches from Versailles says the official journal announces that the whole Government, all the authorities of Paris and 40,000 good troops under Gen. Vinoy are here. Department authorities must obey only orders from Versailles; otherwise they will forfeit their positions. The official journal of Paris says the position at Keraumatre was carried on Saturday and the guns were about to be removed, when the nationals snatched arms from the soldiers and the latter were surrounded and repulsed. The corpses of the Generals were mutilated.

PARIS, March 19.—It is said that the Secretary of the International Society is President of the court for the condemnation of Gens. Lecompte and Thomas. The Nationals are now the only armed troops in force. Most of the Nationals marching through the streets belong to the faubourgs and occupy barricades in Rue Martyr, the Avenue Trudaine, Chaussee Menilmontant, Court Faubourg, street Dermier, St. Rue Rochfort, the vicinity of Hotel De Ville, and St. Antone. Elsewhere all is calm. The insurrectionists are holding the Mayoralties, the Ministries and the telegraph. Parisian Mayors and Deputies demand the removal of Gens. Aurelles and Vinoy, and Valentin Ferry is suggested as the latter's successor. The Government has consented to Lonigons succeeding Aurelles, who went to the Hotel De Ville, upon which the soldiers refused to recognize him. Positions in Bellville and Montmartre are fortified.

Negotiations here for the French loan are suspended.

It is thought the revolutionary movements will extend to Marseilles, Lyons and Bordeaux.

The Thiers' Government contemplate removing to Tours.

It is said that Gen. Vinoy's troops collected in the Provinces, have deserted to join the insurgents.

Ricciotti Garibaldi the Insurgent Leader.

PARIS, March 20.—The insurgents hold the Hotel de Ville, Palais de Justice, Tuileries and the Place Vendome. Complete apathy is displayed and the burgess makes no resistance to the insurgents.

The murder of Lecompte and Thomas was perpetrated by order of Ricciotti Garibaldi, who directs the insurgents. They were shot in the garden of the Rue des Rosiers. Thomas resisted vigorously, when Garibaldi ordered him to be held against the wall while he was riddled with balls. Lecompte died with the utmost coolness, smoking a cigar and refusing to bandage his eyes. Many executions have occurred.

The Government has telegraphed for 60,000 men from Camp Sarto to come to Paris. The Prussians at St. Denis will enter Paris if the garrison is increased beyond 40,000. The city is full of Bonapartists.

Napoleon at Dover.

LONDON, March 20.—Napoleon arrived at Dover at 1 P. M. An immense crowd cheered him, including many French refugees.

Protecting Travelers.

THE BILL FOR THE REGULATIONS OF STEAMBOATS AS PASSED BY BOTH HOUSES OF CONGRESS.

The Steamboat bill which passed both Houses of Congress February 14th, and awaits the President's signature, is more careful and stringent than any one of a similar character heretofore enacted. No license, register or enrolment is to be granted until satisfactory evidence be produced that all the provisions of this act have been complied with. Among other provisions, steamers are required to be provided with suitable pipes and valves attached to the boiler, to convey steam to the hold, and the different compartments thereof, to extinguish fire. Stoves are to be securely fastened, and all wood work and other ignitable substances about the boilers, chimneys, cook houses and stove pipes exposed to ignition shall be thoroughly shielded by some incombustible material. Steam pumps, or equivalent apparatus for throwing water, to be kept at all times. Loose hay, cotton, benzine, powder and like dangerous articles are to be placed beyond danger of fire from the machinery. Watchmen are to be kept in the cabin and on each deck to guard against or give alarm of fire; a life preserver for every cabin passenger to be provided, and a good life-preserver or float for each deck or other class passenger, to be kept in [illegible] for immediate use; buckets filled with water always to be in readiness on every steamboat carrying passengers on the main deck; shall be provided with permanent stairways and other sufficient means convenient to such passengers for their escape to the upper deck in case of the vessel's sinking, or of other accident endangering life, &c. In addition to wire-tiller ropes, or iron rods, or chains, the hulls, boilers and other machinery are to be thoroughly inspected; captains are to be examined as to their character, and skill. If they can safely be trusted with a command, a license shall be granted them. The qualifications of a chief mate, engineer, and pilot shall be subject to a similar examination by the local boards of inspectors. In order to carry this act fully into execution, the ten supervising inspectors are to be continued in commission. Twelve months after the passage of this act, every iron or steel plate used in the construction of steamboat boilers, and which shall be subject to a tensile [illegible], shall be inspected to ascertain its strength, homogeneousness, toughness and [illegible] to withstand the effect of repeated heating and cooling. None other to be used. Adequate provision shall be made to prevent sparks or flame from being driven back from the fire doors into the vessel. Other provisions are made to guard against danger [illegible] the stoppage of vessels, display of [illegible] lights, &c. In the case of loss or accident to personal property owing to non-compliance with the law, passengers are to recover damages by suit. Every sea going steamer and every steamer navigating the great northern or northwestern lakes and carrying passengers, the building of which shall be completed after six months from the passage of this act shall have not less three watertight cross bulkheads, to be made of iron plates, sustained upon suitable frame work, and properly secured to the hull of the vessel. Any captain, engineer or pilot or other person employed in any steamboat or vessel, by whose misconduct or negligence, or inattention to his or their respective duties in such vessel, the life of any person shall be destroyed, or in consequence of fraud, connivance, misconduct or violation of law by any owner or inspectors, or other public officer, the life of any person shall be destroyed, he or they shall be deemed guilty of manslaughter, and upon conviction thereof before any Circuit Court of the United States, shall be sentenced to confinement at hard labor, for a period of not more than ten years; the hull and boilers of every ferryboat, canal boat, yacht, or other small craft of light character, propelled by steam, shall be inspected under the provisions of this act, and such other provisions of law for the better security of life as may be applicable to such vessels, shall by the rules and regulations of the Board of Supervising Inspectors be required before a certificate of inspection shall be granted, and no such vessel shall be navigated without a licensed engineer and a licensed pilot. In addition to the local board appointed for the district of Puget Sound, Milwaukee, Albany, New York, Apalachicola, Evansville, Ind., Huron, Michigan, and Marquette, the President to appoint a supervising inspector-general by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. All acts for the better security of the lives of passengers on steamboats are repealed. The bill was a long one. Provision is made for the salaries of officers, and fines and penalties prescribed for the infraction of the law.—Eastern Paper.

The New York Tribune says: A newspaper comes to the Tribune from a Western city with the indorsement upon the margin "X or be damned." The alternative is fearful, but as of two evils, the Tribune makes it a rule always to choose the least, it declines to "X." A "little story" is appropriate here. Some years ago a young man of culture and good taste went to hear a well known ranter preach. Getting disgusted before the sermon was half through, he left his seat and was going on tip toe toward the door, when the preacher roared out: "Young man! had you rather go to hell than hear me preach?" Somewhat startled at first the young man faced about, and, with a graceful bow, responded: "On the whole, parson, I think I would."

The Watertown (Wis.) Republican learns from "reliable authority" that the fish were so numerous lately in the river at the village of Hustisford, as for a time to seriously interfere with the running of the mills; there, thousands of the finny tribe clogging the wheels of the machinery. The fish were of the largest varieties—pickerel, black bass and pike—and were easily fished out with pitchforks, rakes, and other novel angling implements.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

France and Luxemburg.

LONDON, March 20.—The unfriendliness of the French to Luxemburg is exaggerated. They did not expel the Luxemburgers from Paris, but sent them home at their own request.

The French Consul has absolved the Luxemburg Council from all responsibility for the withdrawal of his exchequer.

Later from Paris.

LONDON, March 20, 6 P. M.—In Paris this morning the situation is unchanged. The National Guards obey orders from the Central Republican Club, and have taken up positions in various quarters, meeting with no resistance.

Preparations are making for voting places throughout the city for communal elections [illegible] dered by the Central Republican Committee. There is one representative to be chosen for every 20,000 voters. Elections will be held on Wednesday, instead of Tuesday.

The press recognize only the authority of [illegible] Assembly, and declare the present situation [illegible] endurable.

Rumors of every description are in circulation. One says the Nationals intend marching on Versailles. Another that the Assembly will remove to Orleans, and that they are about to appoint Faidherbe Generalissimo and Dictator. All papers at the prefecture of police have been destroyed by nationals.

The Uproar in Paris Continues.

The Daily Oregonian.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 22 1871

The News from Paris

The riotous demonstrations in Paris suggest again the bloody courses of the great revolution, when the reign of terror prevailed and the guillotine was governor of France It has long been apparent that there would be great danger of internal dissensions and bloody commotions as soon as the pressure of the German armies should be withdrawn and the French left to themselves Government in France is in a chaotic condition, the old system has been completely swept away and the new one has not been securely established. Affairs again as in 1793 are in transition And such outbreaks as are recorded in the dispatches of to-day will make the transition to a despotism inevitable Every vestige of republicanism will be lost in this mad vortex of passion, crime and blood, and the restoration to order will be accomplished by the strong hand of the military power Thus the falsely called Republicanism of France always defeats its own professed objects Its advocates never learn anything by experience, and by their excesses defeat every attempt to establish a steady republican government, and thereby make the triumph of monarchy, with despotic authority, unavoidable The nation takes refuge in it from the mad violence of bloody anarchists who profess the name of republicans

The scenes of blood like those of the great revolution have again commenced Already in Paris the insurgents appear to have obtained the ascendency and to have everything their own way They proceed at once, and by instinct to the work of assassination, they have their committee of direction, their [illegible] of condemnation, their instruments of execution they occupy the spot on which the sittings of the old revolutionary tribunal were held and take up the trade of murder as naturally as if they were the lineal successors of the bloody triumvirate, and had been wrongfully kept out of their rights and the exercise of their legitimate functions from the days of the reign of terror till now How will this end? The Germans, unless called upon, will not be likely to interfere [illegible] indeed, they find it necessary to do so in order to enforce compliance with the terms of the treaty just made It may be that the Government of the National Assembly, represented by Thiers and his associates, will be compelled to ask the Emperor of Germany to send forces back to subdue the insurgents and restore order so that they may be enabled to fulfill the conditions of the treaty of peace Certainly the best way to scatter and extinguish the inflammable materials which are so rapidly kindling into sedition, is to call in the German troops to do it. That method would be short and effective.

Mines of Eastern Oregon

The New York Engineering and Mining Journal of February 28th contains a letter giving an extended account of the mines and mineral resources of Eastern Oregon. The letter fills two of the broad columns of that journal and is the most valuable contribution on the subject that we have seen. The writer groups his facts with skill, he presents his statements with clearness and precision and [illegible], has acquired a vast amount information relative to the mines in the eastern parts of our State He begins with a detailed history of mining discoveries in that section, and passes to a full and general statement of the present condition of mining industry there. His details are too long to be given in our columns in full, but we present the general summing up in the conclusion of the article Of the yield of the mines the writer says

> The yearly gold product of our mines cannot have been less than from one to one and one half million dollars from 1863 to 1870 The gold has been, we may say the sole product of labor. The number of miners has varied from one to three thousand—averaging for several years about fifteen hundred The average mining season has not been [illegible] months per year. With the amount of water that can be obtained by means of the ditches now completed, our mining population and gold product should be from three to five times greater than heretofore.
> So far we have no more than cracked the shell of our mines the core and heart still lying in the hills and old river channels, and we have only seen slowly but surely developing this fact.

The quartz interests of Eastern Oregon are touched upon, but as almost nothing has yet been done to develop them, the writer only gives them a passing notice His final paragraph is an appeal for a railroad from the Columbia River to Salt Lake. We quote.

> We trust our Senators and Representatives may induce Congress to pass a bill for a railroad to connect the Columbia River and Central Pacific or Union Railroads such as to ensure an early building. Such a road would naturally and necessarily run very near the centre of both Union and [illegible], and would, by giving means of transportation for our products, lead to the settlement of millions of acres of land valuable for farming and grazing purposes With such a road [illegible], we do not know of any part of the Pacific coast that would offer better inducements to the emigrant for permanent homes than [illegible] two counties. Nor do we believe that, with railroad facilities, any two counties in the [illegible] from the Rocky Mountains to the Sierras or Cascades offer to the capitalist mining investments of a more permanent character, on which certain safe and speedy returns can be expected. From 1862 to 1871, our imports have been paid in gold from our mines, with [illegible] facilities for transportation, we could pay in wool flour, bacon, butter, cheese, beef, and many other articles of produce that now depend solely on the mines for a market The gold yield should not be one million, but from three to five million dollars yearly from these two counties, and from agricultural and grazing products a like sum The same may be said of [illegible] and Wasco counties as to health, grazing and farming, but their mineral resources are untested! These five counties, Baker, Union [illegible] Umatilla and Wasco, embrace what is known as Eastern Oregon, an area of country equal in extent to many of our larger States

The Herald is "surprised that the charge of its getting five hundred dollars in the canal and locks transaction should be repeated, since it has "published a letter from the President of that company denying in toto the charge" The letter alluded to did not deny the charge at all. It simply stated that the company had not paid Mr Pennoyer, the editor of the Herald, the money No one ever charged that it had. That was not the charge at all When an accusation is made against A it does not meet the demands of the case to show that B is innocent

England is great in small things, at all events no matter how small she may be in great things. For instance, Government instructed her diplomatic representatives in France not to accompany the Germans on their entry into Paris. That shows a consideration for France which the latter will not appreciate

The South is the name of a paper just started in Memphis (Tenn) to advocate "State rights as they were defined by South Carolina politicians in 1832–33" That is, of course, to advocate the doctrine of the great rebellion The paper is said to be having a great run

Sound Democratic Literature.

It is the misfortune, not the fault of the Democracy of Oregon that they get very little sound Democratic reading matter The Herald does indeed now and then preach feebly in favor of the resolutions of 98, but in general its dissertations are stale, flat and unprofitable To compensate in some sort for this lack of pure Democratic literature we present the following extracts drawn from undeniably sound Democratic sources. They may be taken as so many articles of the Democratic creed and each one of them is as full of genuine Democratic doctrine and sentiment as an egg is of meat Not to occupy more space with preliminaries we proceed at once with the articles

ARTICLE 1.

Vallandigham in a recent speech says "The Democratic party has nothing to deny, nothing to conceal nothing to palliate in all its history, and the most glorious portion of that history is its resistance to Republican usurpation, from 1861 to the close of the war"

ARTICLE 2

The noble Confederate braves were the bravest band of patriots that ever fought for constitutional government and civil liberty, or that was ever conquered by hired Hessians or Yankee thieves Yes, we grieve for the lost cause, and have ever since the sad intelligence flashed, along the wires that Lee had laid down his arms at Appomatox, and the more we have felt of Radical tyranny the more we have regretted it We expect to regret it as long as we live, "and damned be the Southern renegade and apostate who does not —Iuka (Miss) Gazette

ARTICLE 3.

"A dispatch says the President is busily engaged in preparing his message to Congress What an absurdity Is any one simple enough to believe that the rum-guzzling, bloated debauchee, who makes the seat of government come to him at Long Branch, instead of going to it at Washington, is capable of preparing a message? Of course not. The fact probably is that U. S G is drunker than usual and his friends call it preparing a message" —Eufaula (Ala) Guard

ARTICLE 4.

If the Democracy do not "signalize" their "victory by ousting a majority of the officers in the State, making a new Constitution for Missouri, and assuming payment of the debt contracted by Governor Jackson in 1861, the St Louis Democrat to the contrary notwithstanding, it will have forsaken its time honored principles —Missouri Pioneer

ARTICLE 5

Where the impoverished South is robbed, and her "life-blood coined to drachmas" to swell, in bounties, the bloated and disgusting carcasses of New England intolerance, that is just now insulting us with the proffer of a putrid morceau of one-sided-injustice, called an amnesty bill, we grudge every dollar extorted, and execrate, with a holy hatred "the best Government the world ever saw," which has saddled upon us a monster [illegible] fraud, and is depleting every bleeding limb of our industry to "feed fat" an army of Yankee bondholders It is a lie to call this a republic, and our people freemen. We are slaves, and an infamous and venal oligarchy waves over our heads "the rod of the false magician of Egypt," out of which crawl the sleek and slimy tax gatherers and a horde of political vampires —Tuscaloosa (Ga) Monitor.

ARTICLE 6

The mention of General Lee's name in the upper part of the Governmental Pandemonium at Washington was an effect similar to that created by the appearance of Banquo's ghost at Macbeth's feast The small and large dogs competed among themselves for the smaller s belt. The occasion was one to call forth all the [illegible] and eloquence of the Senatorial body, and right nobly did the great men [illegible] of twaddle sustain their reputation. Nye, who knows all about it, says that "the verdict of to-day and posterity will be that General Lee was a traitor." "We would not be sitting here to-day," said one of these howling dervishes, "if Lee had succeeded" Truly that would have been to deprive the world of an unparalled blessing, that of being robbed by some three-score of blackguards seated in a Senate Chamber.—Mobile Daily Tribune

ARTICLE 7.

It is ill worth while for the Associated Press to send the loathsome trash which it forwarded as "responses to McCreery in the Senate" It might as well have telegraphed us at length the ribaldry of some Washington brothel Why the mention of the name of Lee among them never fails to produce a spit and a snarl; but the portrayal of his virtues, the holding of his pure and noble image up to their gaze, and compelling them to look at it for the space of twenty minutes, was a torture to them like nothing we can think of so much as throwing a shovelful of hot ashes into a nest of vipers. How they did squirm and swell and hiss and bite. Then we have several pages of paint, blue and black-lead characters, too tedious to peruse, but we see the word traitor here and there, and that some Senator was afraid there would be an early move to make that "other great traitor," Davis, President The sweet Senators need not trouble themselves Davis would never accept the Presidency, unless upon the condition that every mother's son of them were hanged first. So they will never see it We did not see what triple-distilled ass it was that expatiated upon the unparalled magnanimity of the Government, but one of them actually did.—Mobile Daily Register.

From the Congressional Globe we learn that the title of the Southern Pacific Railroad bill was changed before the passage of the subsidy act, so that the new road is to be known as the Texas Pacific Railroad. Still no doubt the road will always be called popularly the Southern Pacific The main line extends from Marshall, Texas, to San Diego, California, and has a land grant of about thirteen million acres. Provision is also made for a connection eastward with New Orleans, and westward with San Francisco, by which provision about three million acres more are added. No bond or money subsidy is granted, and the Government is not made in any way responsible for interest or principal of bonds to be issued by the company

The Legislature of Indiana has finally amended the divorce laws of the State, so that under the law, as amended, where the cause of divorce has arisen in another State, the petitioner must prove bona fide residence of three years instead of one in the State and county in which the application is filed No divorce will hereafter be granted unless the act or acts complained of were good cause of divorce in the State in which they were committed The causes of divorce must be distinctly stated and nothing is left to the discretion of the Judges as heretofore Henceforth parties who desire to be loosed from matrimonial bonds must look to some other State than Indiana.

A nomadic tragedian recently went to the capital of Arkansas and was waited upon by a committee of the learned men of the town to ascertain what he proposed to give them in the way of entertainment "I should be happy to present to you, gentlemen, Shakespeare's 'Hamlet,' 'Othello,' and 'King Lear,' but I regret exceedingly that, as you have no regular theater, I shall be forced to content myself with readings from the poets" "Never mind," said the spokesman of the party, "we shall be entirely satisfied with your programme Shakespeare does very well for New York and Boston, but in Little Rock he's about played out"

A poor soldier in New Hampshire, who, after three applications, succeeded in getting $100 bounty, sent at once $10 to an uncle who had loaned him that amount when he was in desperate need A few days ago the uncle died, and by his will left the almost penniless soldier his estate, valued at $200,000, giving as his reason for so doing, that he had many times loaned money to his relatives and he alone had repaid him.

WASHINGTON FACT AND GOSSIP

The New York Citizen (Democratic) says General Frank P Blair is a capital speaker We wish he was half as good at holding his tongue

Senator Sherman of Ohio subscribed for the first bond in the new five per cent. loan, and No 1 was issued to him Henry Clews has also invested a million dollars in the new loan

In the roll call of Senators for the Forty second Congress at its first session on the 4th inst the name of ex Governor Vance from North Carolina was not mentioned He has not been admitted and very probably will not be Kelly of Oregon was present and was sworn in

On the 4th of March at noon the terms of several Senators expired, among them that of Saulsbury of Delaware Several of the new Senators were sworn in The name of Goldthwaite of Alabama was called when Sherman of Ohio asked leave to read a memorial from forty five members of the Alabama Legislature protesting against his admission Mr Saulsbury, whose Senatorial term had expired, but who had not yet retired from his seat, here addressed the chair and objected to the reception of the paper The Vice President was obliged to remind the gentleman that he was no longer a member Mr Saulsbury bowing and retiring said, amid great laughter "Oh! I forgot The matter created great merriment

A Washington dispatch of the 6th inst gives this There is now a fair prospect that the difficulties existing in the Republican party in Arkansas will be healed, and that the hostile proceedings instituted against the numerous State officials there will be withdrawn A dispatch received here from Little Rock yesterday by prominent officials states that Governor Clayton has resigned the United States Senatorship to which position he was elected last January, and that the articles of impeachment against the Governor have been simultaneously withdrawn The Legislature will proceed at once to fill the vacancy, and Senator McDonald considers his chances for re election beyond all question He will leave here in a few days to look after his interests in this direction

THE TERRITORIES.

The once famous Salmon river diggings now have a population of less than a hundred white men

Some one has put it into the heads of the Flathead Indians to petition Congress to admit one of their tribe as a cadet at West Point.

Eight steamboats are advertised at St Louis for the Upper Missouri trade, their owners promising to deliver freight at Helena at lower rates than it can be laid down there by railroad

There is talk of grading the Lo lo Fork trail, between Walla Walla and the Cedar creek diggings, the proprietors hoping to reimburse themselves through toll charges. It is much the shortest route from Walla Walla and Lewiston to the Montana settlements

The Montana war claims are reported by Gen Hardie to be in a fair way to be settled. The claims amount to $980,000, but thus far he has only succeeded in getting before Congress about $500,000. A question, he says, has arisen whether the Government should pay any of the claims that have passed out of the hands of the original claimants

A Montana paper says, A dangerous peace has been consummated between Old Blue Head, the war chief of the Sun River Blackfeet, and Inia, the Kootenai chief This treaty secures to the Kootenai, Pen d' Oreille and Flathead Indians an unmolested passage through the buffalo country formerly occupied by the Blackfeet, and will result in the opening of a war path for 400 thieving Kootenais who now infest the valleys of the Jocko and St. Joseph.

They have nice times in the Texas House of Representatives Recently, while in the heat of debate respecting a certain act, Representative Sinclair vehemently denounced all those fighting in the rebellion, and, expending all his force in epithets, fell to that last resort of applying the term traitor, upon which Representative Miller arose and said that he (Sinclair) was a liar Confusion ensued therefrom, loud calls of order, the hurrying to the scene of action by the Sergeant at-Arms, &c, all tended to render the occasion lively.

A great change has come over Japan within the last two or three years The Japanese are now favorably inclined towards foreigners Japan is fast progressing toward the civilization of America and Europe, and not only are railroads in process of construction, and telegraphs in operation, but on all sides a growing desire is manifested to become one of the nations of the world Japan is also anxious to enter into an alliance with England, France, and Prussia, for the purpose of making war on China She is evidently becoming civilized rapidly.

A complete revolution in the tactics of the admirers of the fair sex was produced in Paris by the exigencies of the siege Presents of food were made to the objects of male adoration instead of jewelry, baubles and gewgaws An American lady, who was in the city during the hard times just passed away, writes that "Gen B. had given her ten boxes of sardines," the Marquis de G gave "half a pound of butter," Mr W. contributed "three salt herrings, a quart of beans, half a dozen potatoes, and a pound of bad butter," and so on The successful suitor among these three practical admirers is not named

THE QUEEN OF ENGLAND HISSED —A London correspondent of the New York World, describing how Queen Victoria proceeded to Westminster Palace to open Parliament, says

The weather this morning was lovely. For the second time in seven weeks the sun shone brilliantly, the clouds fled away and the heavens were serene The crowds assembled to witness the grand show afforded by the royal procession were immense in number Her Majesty arrived at Buckingham Palace from Windsor at about 11 o clock There she robed and at 1 40 P M, she entered an open carriage drawn by eight horses, preceded and followed by a mounted guard of honor, and by other state carriages, many of them more gorgeous than her own, The cortege proceeded through the mall of St. James' Park, passing from the Horse Guards into Parliament street, and thence to the House of Lords All along this extended route the people were densely gathered, but a cordon of police, four deep, kept them back from a too near approach to her Majesty I took my station immediately in front of the Horse Guards and when her Majesty emerged from the gate and came in view of the great crowd, which filled the whole of Whitehall and Parliament streets, a remarkable and unprecedented scene occurred A feeble cheer was raised and a few hats waved in the air, and I am almost certain that these demonstrations were made almost altogether by Germans and other foreign spectators. But as the cheer died away, which it did almost as soon as it was uttered, from thousands of lips came forth a loud and unmistakable hiss I was quite close to her Majesty and as the sound fell upon her ears, she ceased for a moment to continue the bows with which she had acknowledged the cheers, she drew herself up in the carriage, and I fancied that her color changed In another moment she was out of my sight

M Michelet, the historian, has published in Florence a book entitled "La France devant l Europe" All the Italian journals are full of it The dominant idea in this book, apart from the patriotic sentiment which inspired it, is that Prussia, weakening herself by her implacable antagonism to France, lays herself open to danger from Russian ambition, which is sure sooner or later to take advantage of the fine game ready to its hand.

MOLTKE AND GRANT.—The New York Herald, in reviewing the great campaign of the Germans against the French says.

The guiding spirit of the German armies was Moltke—the one comprehensive mind which moved the whole machinery of German organization. Neither during the Empire nor the Republic were the French armies guided by a great commander Several Generals had several plans, many of them drawn up without reference to the affect they would produce outside the immediate field operations for which they were prepared On the German side it was all harmony and co-operation, and in this consisted the main point of difference between the two systems In reference to our late war we can bear testimony to the evil effects of the system which, either through design or otherwise, the French adopted Previous to General Grant taking charge of the forces of the Union, signal defeats resulted to the operations of the armies Grant changed all this Not a few of the successes of Moltke find parallels in the successes of the Union arms under Grant Vicksburg, where Pemberton was penned up by Grant, finds a parallel in Metz, where Bazaine was locked in after the battle of Gravelotte by Moltke For the Appomattox campaign and the capitulation of Lee we have Sedan and the surrender of the remaining forces of France with the Emperor at their head Many others might be enumerated Some of the most decisive victories were won by the flank movements of the Germans, as were many of the triumphs of Grant Where McClellan hesitated and attempted success without energy to secure it in the peninsular campaign, Grant, by moving rapidly and pressing heavily on the enemy's flank, proved eminently successful The same hearty co-operation between Moltke and his Generals was observable in Grant's campaign as Moltke moved with heavy masses and overpowered his enemy by superior strength, coupled with skill, judgment, forethought and ability in its direction. Grant pursued a similar course While the names of the Crown Prince, Prince Frederick Charles Steinmetz and Manteuffel will illustrate Moltke's campaigns, those of Sherman, Sheridan Meade and Rosecrans will illumine Grant's That Moltke was a close student of the American war there are many evidences to point to, and improving on the knowledge he thus obtained, he has helped to rear the great Power which, having its origin in French disasters, received its baptism of fire on French soil, now appears before the world as the Empire of Germany

Queen Victoria, at the opening of Parliament wore a black terry velvet dress, with a train trimmed with miniver and crape, and a long lace, cross and brooch, the ribbon and the white tulle veil surmounted by a small diamond crown, she also wore a diamond neck-star of the Order of the Garter, the Orders of Victorian and Albert and Louise of Prussia, and the Saxe Coburg and Gotha family order. The Princess of Wales wore a dress of violet velvet, trimmed with a lighter shade of satin, and flounces of fine white Brussels lace ornaments corsage necklace and bracelet of pearls and diamonds head dress a tiara of diamonds, feathers and veil, orders, Victoria and Albert, and the Danish order

PRESENTATION.—George Washington Stroud, Mayor of Scio, is Mail Agent on the Oregon [illegible] Railroad, between Portland and [illegible]. Sam Wisans is a conductor on one of [illegible] among his fellow employes and the traveling public to be a first-rate fellow, [illegible] of the first water. These two individuals [illegible] very conspicuously yesterday morning in [illegible] scene, in which Stroud, late Mayor, was spokesman for the parties presenting, and made the usual "few eloquent and appropriate" [illegible] and Wisans being the surprised [illegible] recipient, who responded "briefly [illegible] with thanks," etc. George was on [illegible] morning down train; Sam on the morning [illegible] train. They met, not by chance, but according to time and schedule, and while the two trains [illegible] for a moment, Sam was inveigled into one of the baggage cars where he was confronted by a "few friends," the latter having [illegible] on what was to follow, and instructed [illegible] at the proper places. Sam being fairly [illegible] and not able to make his escape, [illegible] his portly presence in a commanding [illegible] in front of his victim, and whistling [illegible] spoke thusly:

[illegible] I am delegated by a large number of very respectable gentlemen (including myself) who, [illegible] not related to you by blood or [illegible] have yet had relations with you in a [illegible] way along this line of railroad, [illegible] to you this trifle of jewelry (here, George fumbled in his right-hand vest pocket, and brought forth an elegant gold pin, bearing a conductor's badge) as a token of their high esteem [illegible] a good [illegible] gentleman, and your [illegible] talent as a railroad conductor. [illegible] hope you will accept this little token with the [illegible] resignation and fortitude that [illegible] would exhibit if we were in your shoes. [illegible] from the boys.] Now, Sam, put it on, [illegible] wear it proudly, but don't [illegible] you into being too proud [illegible] your old friends, Sam. Remember [illegible] by which I mean your father [illegible] though honest, were respectable, and [illegible] matter with the rest of us [illegible] from a one-eyed man who [illegible] the point.) The American [illegible] applause became general and deafening, [illegible] which, both the locomotive whistles [illegible] and if George made any more [illegible] was forever lost to human ears, [illegible] be recorded above. George de[illegible] that there was some design in [illegible] of whistles.

Sam replied. He said, "Well, [illegible] and the other respectable gentlemen [illegible] and—and—and—pshaw! I [illegible] anything about this speech-making [illegible] but I'll stand the peanuts." (Applause [illegible] during which the apprecia[illegible] dispersed and the trains pursued [illegible] respective journeys. George insists that he [illegible] made a speech that would have done [illegible] if he had had a fair chance. There is [illegible]

RAILROAD MEETING.

Pursuant to notice, the incorporators of the "Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad Co.," met at the Police court room last evening. There were present Messrs. M. S. Burrell, Jacob Stitzel, E. M. Burton, C. Bills, E. J. Northrup, William Masters, E. Corbett, James Steel, W. W. Chapman, A. Myers, R. Wilcox, Charles M. Carter, W. H. Watkins, D. W. Williams, J. M. Gilman, Henry L. Pittock, Erasmus D. Shattuck, A. P. Dennison, T. J. Carter, John M. Brock. E. J. Northrup was elected Chairman, and Jacob Stitzel, Secretary.

Colonel Chapman explained the object of the meeting. He had examined the law and thought, although the company had empowered him to act as agent, for the safety of the company there ought to be an expression by vote of the corporators making him agent and recording it. He also thought that action should be taken to appoint a committee on correspondence to open correspondence with the people interested along the line, and insure united action instead of working in detached companies for the same end. We had started the ball, and he wished that all along the route the people would keep it rolling, making it bigger and bigger, until success should be accomplished. He believed that this route would be more popular without than either of the other roads are with the Government grants and aid.

Remarks were made by Erasmus D. Shattuck, A. P. Dennison and others.

The following resolutions were offered by Judge Shattuck, and adopted separately:

Resolved, That a Committee on Correspondence —consisting of five, be appointed by the chair, charged with the duty of corresponding with parties along the route, to promote united action in favor of the enterprise, and to prepare, publish, and to circulate facts and arguments in support thereof.

Resolved, That a committee of three on Finances be appointed by the chair to raise money to defray necessary expenses incurred in presenting to capitalists the advantages and importance of the road, the same to be under the direction of the Committee on Correspondence.

Resolved, by the corporators of the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake R. R. Co., that W. W. Chapman, one of said corporators, be and he is authorized to open books in Oregon, and also in any other of the United States and in the Territories, and to receive subscriptions to the capital stock of this corporation.

The chairman, upon suggestion of D. W. Williams, reserved the appointment of the committees named in the first two resolutions until to-morrow, in order that gentlemen might be selected who would be willing to serve, and take active interest in the enterprise.

On the last resolution the vote was recorded by yeas and nays, the yeas being 19; nays, none.

The meeting then adjourned subject to the call of the Chairman.

AMUSEMENTS.

CONCERT.—There was a fine audience at Philharmonic Hall last evening. The performances were generally of a pleasing character, while some of them were of a high order of excellence. The overture "Poet et Payson," was exceedingly well performed, as were several quartettes, by Barr, Monteith, Hitchcock and Corinne Mercier, or Mr. Stinson. Blanche Mercier sang "Up in a Balloon" very prettily, for which she received an encore, and she then sang "Topsy" with great applause. Mr. J. H. Stinson performed a violin solo, selections from Beriot, and was called out again with applause that was almost deafening. Miss Corinne Mercier displayed a fine alto voice in "Come where my Love lies Dreaming." Mr. Monteith sang several airs with fine effect. There were several other performances which might be mentioned with credit to the singers. The most artistic performance, however, of the evening was the vocal solo by Miss Octavia Beatrice Mercier—from Ettore Barili's opera of "Carlotta de la Messicano." In this she exhibited an extraordinary range of voice and perfect command of it. In the closing strain she reached with a clear tone, D sharp, above what is known as the vocal high key. Upon retiring she was applauded long and most enthusiastically. The call for her return was prolonged till Mr. Hitchcock was obliged to come out and announce that Miss Mercier's physician has positively forbidden her to sing more than once, and even then the audience gave it up reluctantly.

ORO FINO THEATRE.—The drama of "The Deaf Man of the Village" was presented last evening to a good house, and in a very satisfactory manner. It was followed by the usual vocal and terpsichorian varieties. To-night the same play will be reproduced, and the entertainment will close with the very popular and laughable comedy of "Toodles" Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] both appearing.

SUICIDE.—About 11 o'clock Monday night Joseph McBrien, late proprietor of the Pearl Saloon committed suicide, as is supposed, by jumping off the ferryboat into the river at the foot of Stark street. The watchman on the boat says he saw some one go by the door of the engine room, and in a moment heard a plunge in the water. Going out to the end of the boat he saw some light colored object come up to the surface, and sink again and he saw it no more. Language [illegible] few [illegible] to the belief that he contemplated self-destruction, and he is missing. It is therefore concluded that it was he who jumped overboard from the boat. There had been for some time some domestic troubles on his mind, which strengthens the belief that he has taken his own life, though there is not so far [illegible] any positive evidence.

LARGE PASSENGER LIST.—The morning train brought down yesterday the largest passenger list, it is said, that has passed over the road in one train since the close of the State Fair, last fall. Among them were quite a number of people of Linn and Marion counties, who were summoned here by the U. S. District Court for various purposes.

LARGE IMMIGRATION OF MASONS.—The morning train from Albany and Salem yesterday, brought down a large number of Masons, who came to attend some Masonic convocation. They were a pretty good looking lot, upon the average, and no additional police force is considered necessary.

RELIGIOUS.—Services and lecture in the Unitarian Church will be Thursday evening instead of Wednesday.

FRESH CLAMS.—A superb lot of Fresh Clams was received last night from Clatsop Beach, at QUINN'S, on Washington street.

Do you desire a handsome Suit of Clothing? If you do, go to Isaac Barman, corner First and Alder streets, Odd Fellows Temple.

J. O'NEIL & Co. have just received and opened one of the best assorted lots of Gents' Furnishing Goods ever brought into this city, consisting of all kinds of Clothing, Collars, Cuffs, Gloves, Ties, Hosiery, and a large invoice of the Stein Shirts, the best fitting and best made Shirt now worn. Their goods are of the latest styles and choicest patterns. Persons wishing spring goods and styles should not fail to give them a call. They cannot but be pleased with both their goods and prices.

SPRING STYLES.—KOHN & FISHEL, as usual, are the first to fill their store with the new Spring Styles of Clothing and Furnishing Goods. Their stock is very large, and their goods of the best quality, and latest styles. Messrs. Kohn & Fishel buy their goods in large quantities, consequently, get them at low rates and can afford to sell cheap, which they intend to do.

They respectfully invite their friends and patrons to give them a call.

BARNUM'S C[illegible] THREAD is unequalled for strength and evenness of thread. Try it and be convinced of its superior qualities.

Catarrh is a [illegible] disease, so common that snuffing and "hawking" reach you at every turn. Your foot slips in its nasty discharge, in the omnibus or in church, and its stench disgusts at the lecture or the concert. The proprietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offers $500 reward for a case of Catarrh he cannot cure. Sold by druggists or send sixty cents to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 133 Seneca street, Buffalo, N. Y., and you will receive it by mail. Beware of counterfeits and worthless imitations. The genuine has Dr. Pierce's private U. S. Government Stamp on it.

MILITARY MAPS.—Colonel A. P. Dennison, Adjutant General of Oregon, has lately received from the United States War Department a lot of very finely lithographed maps, illustrating the operations of the armies of the Potomac and James, from May 4th, 1864, to April 9th, 1865. The whole country over which the armies operated during the time specified is shown upon one map, and then each particular noted battle-field is shown upon a separate map. Not only are the positions of the opposing lines noted, but every feature of the intervening grounds and surrounding country—the clearings, timbered country, streams, villages, hills, gulches, residences, railroads, etc., with distances accurately noted. A study of those maps must certainly afford a more accurate idea of the military situations of that period than could be obtained from the most elaborate descriptions by "correspondents in the field," or "special artists on the spot." Col. Dennison, for the purpose of preserving these maps, has caused them to be neatly and substantially bound. He will take pleasure in showing them to any one who may be curious about such matters.

Trust what Time has Sanctioned.

The maxim that the voice of the people is the voice of the divinity, may in some cases be open to doubt, but the testimony of honest and enlightened witnesses extending through a series of years, and all to the same purport is worthy of credence, admits of no doubt. Upon such testimony the reputation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as an antidote and cure for [illegible] is based. During the twenty years that it has been before the world, innumerable preparations intended to compete with it, have gone up like rockets and came down the extinguished sticks. Meanwhile the progress of that [illegible] always upward and onward with the eagle's flight. Its introduction produced a revolution in therapeutics, and it proved to be one of those salutary revolutions that cannot go backwards. To-day Hostetter's Bitters is one of the most popular remedies in christendom, and commands a larger sale than any other medicinal preparation, domestic or imported, on this side of the Atlantic. As a cure for dyspepsia, bilious disorders, nervous affections, general debility, and as a preventive of epidemic fevers, it takes precedence of every other remedy. This fact should teach the ambitious country dealers who endeavor to foist their local abortions on the public in its stead, how futile their small attempts to cajole the community must necessarily be. Where the game fish have failed there is no chance for the "suckers."

WEDNESDAY MORNING. MARCH 22, 1871.

The News from Paris.

The riotous demonstrations in Paris suggest again the bloody courses of the great revolution, when the reign of terror prevailed and the guillotine was governor of France. It has long been apparent that there would be great danger of internal dissensions and bloody commotions as soon as the pressure of the German armies should be withdrawn and the French left to themselves. Government in France is in a chaotic condition; the old system has been completely swept away and the new one has not been securely established. Affairs again, as in 1793, are in transition. And such outbreaks as are recorded in the dispatches of to-day will make the transition to a despotism inevitable. Every vestige of republicanism will be lost in this mad vortex of passion, crime and blood, and the restoration to order will be accomplished by the strong hand of the military power. Thus the falsely called Republicanism of France always defeats its own professed objects. Its advocates never learn anything by experience, and by their excesses defeat every attempt to establish a steady republican government, and thereby make the triumph of monarchy, with despotic authority, unavoidable. The nation takes refuge in it from the mad violence of bloody anarchists who profess the name of republicans.

The scenes of blood like those of the great revolution have again commenced. Already in Paris the insurgents appear to have obtained the ascendency and to have everything their own way. They proceed at once, and as by instinct, to the work of assassination; they have their committees of direction, their tribunal of condemnation, their instruments of execution; they occupy the spot on which the sittings of the old revolutionary tribunal were held, and take up the trade of murder as naturally as if they were the lineal successors of the bloody triumvirate, and had been wrongfully kept out of their rights and the exercise of their legitimate functions from the days of the reign of terror till now. How is this to end? The Germans, unless they are called upon, will not be likely to interfere—unless, indeed, they find it necessary to do so in order to enforce compliance with the terms of the treaty just made. It may be that the Government of the National Assembly, represented by Thiers and his associates, will be compelled to ask the Emperor of Germany to send forces here to subdue the insurgents and restore order, so that they may be enabled to fulfill the conditions of the treaty of peace. Certainly the best way to scatter and extinguish the inflammable materials which are so rapidly kindling into sedition, is to call in the German troops to do it. That method would be short and effectual.

Mines of Eastern Oregon.

The New York Engineering and Mining Journal of February 28th contains a letter which gives an extended account of the mines and mineral resources of Eastern Oregon. The letter fills five of the broad columns of that journal, and is the most valuable contribution on the subject that we have seen. The writer groups his facts with skill; he presents his statements with clearness and precision and evidently has acquired a vast amount of information relative to the mines in the eastern parts of our State. He begins with a detailed history of mining discoveries in that section, and passes to a full and general statement of the present condition of mining industry there. His details are too long to be given in our columns in full, but we present the general summing up in the conclusion of the article. Of the yield of the mines the writer says:

> The yearly gold product of our mines cannot have been less than from one to one and one half million dollars from 1863 to 1870. The gold has been, we may say, the sole product of labor. The number of miners has varied from one to three thousand—averaging for several years about fifteen hundred. The average mining season has not been [illegible] months per year. With the amount of water that can be obtained by means of the ditches now contemplated, our mining population and gold product should be from three to five times greater than heretofore.
> So far we have no more than cracked the shell of our mines, the core and heart still lying in the hills, and old river channels, and we have only been slowly but surely developing this fact.

The quartz interests of Eastern Oregon are touched upon, but as almost nothing has yet been done to develop them, the writer only gives them a passing notice. His final paragraph is an appeal for a railroad from the Columbia River to Salt Lake. We quote:

> We trust our Senators and Representatives may induce Congress to pass a bill for a railroad to connect the Columbia River and Central Pacific or Union Railroads, such as to insure an early building. Such a road would naturally and necessarily run very near the centre of both Union and Baker counties, and would, by giving means of transportation for our products, lead to the settlement of millions of acres of land valuable for farming and grazing purposes. With such a road completed, we do not know of any part of the Pacific coast that would offer better inducements to the emigrant for permanent homes than in these two counties. Nor do we believe that, with railroad facilities, any two counties in the great basin from the Rocky Mountains to the Sierras or Cascades, offer to the capitalist mining investments of a more permanent character, or which certain safe and speedy returns can be expected. From 1862 to 1871, our imports have been paid in gold from our mines; with increased facilities for transportation, we could pay in wool, flour, bacon, butter, cheese, beef, and many other articles of produce that now depend solely on the mines for a market. The gold yield should not be one million, but from three to five million dollars yearly from these two counties, and from agricultural and grazing products, a like sum. The same may be said of Umatilla and Wasco counties as to health, grazing and farming, but their mineral resources are limited. These five counties, Baker, Union, Grant, Umatilla and Wasco, embrace what is known as Eastern Oregon, an area of country equal in extent to many of our larger States.

The Herald is "surprised" that the charge of its getting five hundred dollars in the canal and locks transaction should be repeated, since it has "published a letter from the President of that company denying in toto the charge." The letter alluded to did not deny the charge at all. It simply stated that the company had not paid Mr. Pennoyer, the editor of the Herald, the money. No one ever charged that it had. That was not the charge at all. When an accusation is made against A it does not meet the demands of the case to show that B is innocent.

England is great in small things, at all events, no matter how small she may be in great things. For instance, Government instructed her diplomatic representatives in France not to accompany the Germans on their entry into Paris. That shows a consideration for France which the latter will not appreciate.

The South is the name of a paper just started at Memphis (Tenn.) to advocate "State rights as they were defined by South Carolina politicians in 1832-33." That is, of course, to advocate the doctrine of the great rebellion. The paper is said to be having a great run.

Sound Democratic Literature.

It is the misfortune, not the fault of the Democracy of Oregon that they get very little sound Democratic reading matter. The Herald does indeed now and then preach feebly in favor of the resolutions of '98, but in general its dissertations are stale, flat and unprofitable. To compensate in some sort for this lack of pure Democratic literature we present the following extracts drawn from undeniably sound Democratic sources. They may be taken as so many articles of the Democratic creed, and each one of them is as full of genuine Democratic doctrine and sentiment as an egg is of meat. Not to occupy more space with preliminaries we proceed at once with the articles:

ARTICLE 1.

Vallandigham in a recent speech says: "The Democratic party has nothing to deny, nothing to conceal, nothing to palliate in all its history; and the most glorious portion of that history, is its resistance to Republican usurpation, from 1861 to the close of the war."

ARTICLE 2.

The noble Confederate braves were the bravest band of patriots that ever fought for constitutional government and civil liberty, or that was ever conquered by hired Hessians or Yankee thieves. Yes, we grieve for the lost cause, and have ever since the sad intelligence flashed along the wires that Lee had laid down his arms at Appomatox, and the more we have felt of Radical tyranny the more we have regretted it. We expect to regret it as long as we live, "and damned be the Southern renegade and apostate who does not."—Iuka (Miss.) Gazette.

ARTICLE 3.

"A dispatch says the President is busily engaged in preparing his message to Congress. What an absurdity. Is any one simple enough to believe that the rum-guzzling, bloated debauchee, who makes the seat of government come to him at Long Branch, instead of going to it at Washington, is capable of preparing a message? Of course not. The fact probably is that U. S. G. is drunker than usual, and his friends call it 'preparing a message.'"—Eufaula (Ala.) Guard.

ARTICLE 4.

If the Democracy do not "signalize" their "victory" by ousting a majority of the officers in the State, making a new Constitution for Missouri, and assuming payment of the debt contracted by Governor Jackson in 1861, the St. Louis Democrat to the contrary notwithstanding, it will have forsaken its time-honored principles.—Missouri Pioneer.

ARTICLE 5.

Where the impoverished South is robbed, and has "life-blood coined to drachmas" to swell, in bounties, the bloated and disgusting carcasses of New England intolerance, that is just now insulting us with the proffer of a putrid morceau of one-sided justice, called an amnesty bill, we grudge every dollar extorted, and execrate, with a holy hatred "the best Government the world ever saw," which has saddled upon us a monster thrift fraud, and is depleting every bleeding limb of our industry to "feed fat" an army of Yankee bondholders. It is a lie to call this a republic and our people freemen. We are slaves, and an infamous and venal oligarchy waves over our heads "the rod of the false magician of Egypt," out of which crawl the sleek and slimy tax gatherers, and a horde of political vampires.—Tuscaloosa (Ga.) Monitor.

ARTICLE 6.

The mention of General Lee's name in the upper part of the Governmental Pandemonium at Washington was an effect similar to that created by the appearance of Banquo's ghost at Macbeth's feast. The small and large dogs competed among themselves for the snarler's belt. The occasion was one to call forth all the patriotism and independence of the Senatorial body, and right nobly did the great masters of twaddle sustain their reputation. Nye, who knows all about it, says that "the verdict of to-day and posterity will be that General Lee was a traitor." "We would not be sitting here to-day," said one of these howling dervishes, "if Lee had succeeded." Truly that would have been to deprive the world of an unparalled blessing, that of being robbed by some three-score of blackguards seated in a Senate Chamber.—Mobile Daily Tribune.

ARTICLE 7.

It is ill worth while for the Associated Press to send the loathsome trash which it forwarded as "responses to McCreery in the Senate." It might as well have telegraphed us at length the ribaldry of some Washington brothel. Why the mention of the name of Lee among them never fails to produce a spit and a snarl; but the portrayal of his virtues, the holding of his pure and noble image up to their gaze, and compelling them to look at it for the space of twenty minutes, was a torture to them like nothing we can think of so much as throwing a shovelful of hot ashes into a nest of vipers. How they did squirm and swell and hiss and bite. Then we have several pages of paint, blue and black-lead characters, too tedious to peruse; but we see the word traitor here and there, and that some Senator was afraid there would be an early move to make that "other great traitor," Davis, President. The sweet Senators need not trouble themselves. Davis would never accept the Presidency, unless upon the condition that every mother's son of them were hanged first. So they will never see it. We did not see what triple-distilled ass it was that expatiated upon the unparalled magnanimity of the Government; but one of them actually did.—Mobile Daily Register.

From the Congressional Globe we learn that the title of the Southern Pacific Railroad bill was changed before the passage of the subsidy act, so that the new road is to be known as the Texas Pacific Railroad. Still no doubt the road will always be called popularly the Southern Pacific. The main line extends from Marshall, Texas, to San Diego, California, and has a land grant of about thirteen million acres. Provision is also made for a connection eastward with New Orleans, and westward with San Francisco, by which provision about three million acres more are added. No bond or money subsidy is granted, and the Government is not made in any way responsible for interest or principal of bonds to be issued by the company.

The Legislature of Indiana has finally amended the divorce laws of the State, so that under the law, as amended, where the cause of divorce has arisen in another State, the petitioner must prove bona fide residence of three years instead of one in the State and county in which the application is filed. No divorce will hereafter be granted unless the act or acts complained of were good cause of divorce in the State in which they were committed. The causes of divorce must be distinctly stated, and nothing is left to the discretion of the Judges as heretofore. Henceforth parties who desire to be loosed from matrimonial bonds must look to some other State than Indiana.

A nomadic tragedian recently went to the capital of Arkansas and was waited upon by a committee of the learned men of the town to ascertain what he proposed to give them in the way of entertainment. "I should be happy to present to you, gentlemen, Shakespeare's 'Hamlet,' 'Othello,' and 'King Lear;' but, I regret exceedingly that, as you have no regular theater, I shall be forced to content myself with readings from the poets." "Never mind," said the spokesman of the party; "we shall be entirely satisfied with your programme. Shakespeare does very well for New York and Boston, but in Little Rock he's about played out."

A poor soldier in New Hampshire, who, after three applications, succeeded in getting $100 bounty, sent at once $10 to an uncle who had loaned him that amount when he was in desperate need. A few days ago the uncle died, and by his will left the almost penniless soldier his estate, valued at $200,000, giving as his reason for so doing, that he had many times loaned money to his relatives and he alone had repaid him.

WASHINGTON FACT AND GOSSIP.

The New York Citizen (Democratic) says: General Frank P. Blair is a capital speaker. We wish he was half as good at holding his tongue.

Senator Sherman of Ohio subscribed for the first bond in the new five per cent. loan, and No. 1 was issued to him. Henry Clews has also invested a million dollars in the new loan.

In the roll call of Senators for the Forty-second Congress at its first session on the 4th inst. the name of ex-Governor Vance from North Carolina was not mentioned. He has not been admitted and very probably will not be. Kelly of Oregon was present and was sworn in.

On the 4th of March at noon the terms of several Senators expired, among them that of Saulsbury of Delaware. Several of the new Senators were sworn in. The name of Goldthwaite of Alabama was called, when Sherman of Ohio asked leave to read a memorial from forty-five members of the Alabama Legislature protesting against his admission. Mr. Saulsbury, whose Senatorial term had expired, but who had not yet retired from his seat, here addressed the chair and objected to the reception of the paper. The Vice President was obliged to remind the gentleman that he was no longer a member. Mr. Saulsbury bowing and retiring said, amid great laughter, "Oh! I forgot." The matter created great merriment.

A Washington dispatch of the 6th inst. gives this: There is now a fair prospect that the difficulties existing in the Republican party in Arkansas will be healed, and that the hostile proceedings instituted against the numerous State officials there will be withdrawn. A dispatch received here from Little Rock yesterday by prominent officials states that Governor Clayton has resigned the United States Senatorship, to which position he was elected last January, and that the articles of impeachment against the Governor have been simultaneously withdrawn. The Legislature will proceed at once to fill the vacancy, and Senator McDonald considers his chances for re-election beyond all question. He will leave here in a few days to look after his interests in this direction.

THE TERRITORIES.

The once famous Salmon river diggings now have a population of less than a hundred white men.

Some one has put it into the heads of the Flathead Indians to petition Congress to admit one of their tribe as a cadet at West Point.

Eight steamboats are advertised at St. Louis for the Upper Missouri trade, their owners promising to deliver freight at Helena at lower rates than it can be laid down there by railroad.

There is talk of grading the Lo-Lo Fork trail, between Walla Walla and the Cedar creek diggings, the proprietors hoping to reimburse themselves through toll charges. It is much the shortest route from Walla Walla and Lewiston to the Montana settlements.

The Montana war claims are reported by Gen. Hardie to be in a fair way to be settled. The claims amount to $980,000; but thus far he has only succeeded in getting before Congress about $500,000. A question, he says, has arisen whether the Government should pay any of the claims that have passed out of the hands of the original claimants.

A Montana paper says: A dangerous peace has been consummated between Old Blue Head, the war chief of the Sun River Blackfeet, and Ines, the Kootenai chief. This treaty secures to the Kootenai, Pen d' Oreille and Flathead Indians an unmolested passage through the buffalo country formerly occupied by the Blackfeet, and will result in the opening of a war path for 400 thieving Kootenais who now infest the valleys of the Jocko and St. Joseph.

CURRENT NOTES.

A Louisville paper reports the formation of a "Dodge Club" in that city. The object of the members is to dodge their creditors.

The Billet Doux is the name of a new weekly published in Dublin, and addressed to "the daughters of Eve all over the world."

The Tycoon of Japan is about to send an embassy to Emperor William of Germany to congratulate him on his victory over the French barbarians.

It is claimed by Professor Swallow, engaged in the geological survey of Missouri, that there are larger trees in that State than in California; and he notes a sycamore that is forty-feet in circumference.

They have nice times in the Texas House of Representatives. Recently, while in the heat of debate respecting a certain act, Representative Sinclair vehemently denounced all those fighting in the rebellion, and, expending all his force in epithets, fell to that last resort of applying the term traitor, upon which Representative Miller arose and said that he (Sinclair) was a liar. Confusion ensued therefrom; loud calls of order; the hurrying to the scene of action by the Sergeant at-Arms, &c., all tended to render the occasion lively.

A great change has come over Japan within the last two or three years. The Japanese are now favorably inclined towards foreigners. Japan is fast progressing toward the civilization of America and Europe, and not only are railroads in process of construction, and telegraphs in operation, but on all sides a growing desire is manifested to become one of the nations of the world. Japan is also anxious to enter into an alliance with England, France, and Prussia, for the purpose of making war on China. She is evidently becoming civilized rapidly.

A complete revolution in the tactics of the admirers of the fair sex was produced in Paris by the exigencies of the siege. Presents of food were made to the objects of male adoration instead of jewelry, baubles and gewgaws. An American lady, who was in the city during the hard times just passed away, writes that "Gen. B. had given her ten boxes of sardines," the Marquis de G. gave "half a pound of butter," Mr. W. contributed "three salt herrings, a quart of beans, half a dozen potatoes, and a pound of bad butter," and so on. The successful suitor among these three practical admirers is not named.

THE QUEEN OF ENGLAND HISSED.—A London correspondent of the New York World, describing how Queen Victoria proceeded to Westminster Palace to open Parliament, says:

The weather this morning was lovely. For the second time in seven weeks the sun shone brilliantly, the clouds fled away and the heavens were serene. The crowds assembled to witness the grand show afforded by the royal procession were immense in number. Her Majesty arrived at Buckingham Palace from Windsor at about 11 o'clock. There she robed, and at 1:40 P. M. she entered an open carriage drawn by eight horses, preceded and followed by a mounted guard of honor, and by other state carriages, many of them more gorgeous than her own. The cortege proceeded through the mall of St. James' Park, passing from the Horse Guards into Parliament street, and thence to the House of Lords. All along this extended route the people were densely gathered, but a cordon of police, four deep, kept them back from a too near approach to her Majesty. I took my station immediately in front of the Horse Guards, and when her Majesty emerged from the gate and came in view of the great crowd, which filled the whole of Whitehall and Parliament streets, a remarkable and unprecedented scene occurred. A feeble cheer was raised, and a few hats waved in the air, and I am almost certain that these demonstrations were made almost altogether by Germans and other foreign spectators. But as the cheer died away, which it did almost as soon as it was uttered, from thousands of lips came forth a loud and unmistakable hiss. I was quite close to her Majesty, and as the sound fell upon her ears, she ceased for a moment to continue the bows with which she had acknowledged the cheers; she drew herself up in the carriage, and I fancied that her color changed. In another moment she was out of my sight.

M. Michelet, the historian, has published in Florence a book entitled "La France devant l'Europe." All the Italian journals are full of it. The dominant idea in this book, apart from the patriotic sentiment which inspired it, is that Prussia, weakening herself by her implacable antagonism to France, lays herself open to danger from Russian ambition, which is sure sooner or later to take advantage of the fine game ready to its hand.

MOLTKE AND GRANT.—The New York Herald, in reviewing the great campaign of the Germans against the French says:

The guiding spirit of the German armies was Moltke—the one comprehensive mind which moved the whole machinery of German organization. Neither during the Empire nor the Republic were the French armies guided by a great commander. Several Generals had several plans, many of them drawn up without reference to the effect they would produce outside the immediate field operations for which they were prepared. On the German side it was all harmony and co-operation; and in this consisted the main point of difference between the two systems. In reference to our late war we can bear testimony to the evil effects of the system which, either through design or otherwise, the French adopted. Previous to General Grant taking charge of the forces of the Union, signal defeats resulted to the operations of the armies. Grant changed all this. Not a few of the successes of Moltke find parallels in the successes of the Union arms under Grant. Vicksburg, where Pemberton was penned up by Grant, finds a parallel in Metz, where Bazaine was locked in after the battle of Gravelotte by Moltke. For the Appomattox campaign and the capitulation of Lee, we have Sedan and the surrender of the remaining forces of France, with the Emperor at their head. Many others might be enumerated. Some of the most decisive victories were won by the flank movements of the Germans, as were many of the triumphs of Grant. Where McClellan hesitated and attempted success without energy to secure it in the peninsular campaign, Grant, by moving rapidly and pressing heavily on the enemy's flank, proved eminently successful. The same hearty co-operation between Moltke and his Generals was observable in Grant's campaign's. Moltke moved with heavy masses and overpowered his enemy by superior strength, coupled with skill, judgment, forethought and ability in its direction. Grant pursued a similar course. While the names of the Crown Prince, Prince Frederick Charles, Steinmetz and Manteuffel will illustrate Moltke's campaigns, those of Sherman, Sheridan, Meade and Rosecrans will illumine Grant's. That Moltke was a close student of the American war there are many evidences to point to, and, improving on the knowledge he thus obtained, he has helped to rear the great Power which, having its origin in French disasters, received its baptism of fire on French soil, now appears before the world as the Empire of Germany.

Queen Victoria, at the opening of Parliament wore a black terry-velvet dress, with a train trimmed with miniver and crape, and a long lace, cross and brooch, the ribbon and the white tulle veil surmounted by a small diamond crown; she also wore a diamond neck-star of the Order of the Garter, the Orders of Victoria and Albert and Louise of Prussia, and the Saxe-Coburg and Gotha family order. The Princess of Wales wore a dress of violet velvet, trimmed with a lighter shade of satin, and flounces of fine white Brussels lace; ornaments, corsage, necklace and bracelet of pearls and diamonds; head-dress, a tiara of diamonds, feathers and veil; orders, Victoria and Albert, and the Danish order.

CITY.

PRESENTATION.—George Washington, [illegible] late Mayor of Scio, is Mail Agent on the Oregon and California Railroad, between Portland and Albany. Sam Winans is a conductor on the [illegible] the trains—reputed among the [illegible] and the traveling public to be a [illegible] a brick of the first water. There [illegible] figured very conspicuously yesterday [illegible] a presentation scene, in which Sam [illegible] was spokesman for the [illegible] and made the usual "few eloquent and appropriate remarks," and Winans being the [illegible] and overcome recipient, who [illegible] felt feelingly with thanks [illegible] George [illegible] the morning down train [illegible] up train. They met [illegible] paused for a moment. Sam [illegible] of the baggage car, where he [illegible] George and a "few friends" [illegible] been posted on what was to follow [illegible] to applaud at the proper places [illegible] George planted his portly [illegible] ing posture, in front of his [illegible] "or brakes," spoke thusly: [illegible]

[illegible]

How the applause became general [illegible] ing, added to which, [illegible] the [illegible] whistles were set going, and [illegible] sequence, it was forever [illegible] change his expression [illegible] that chorus of whistles [illegible]

Of course, Sam [illegible] He said, "Well, George, [illegible] how my thanks [illegible] don't know anything [illegible] however, but I [illegible] and more whistling [illegible] the spectators dispersed [illegible] their respective journeys [illegible] would have made a speech [illegible] has credit if he had [illegible] no doubt of it.

SECOND LECTURE ON GEOLOGY.—Rev. Thomas Condon's second and concluding lecture on the geology of the great basin east of the Cascade mountains, will be delivered [illegible] Hall. It will be remembered [illegible] Mr. Condon only placed before [illegible] a general outline of the geological [illegible] the Pacific coast, promising to [illegible] in the next lecture. This evening [illegible] may expect to hear more [illegible] mal and other fossil remains [illegible] tween the rocky strata. The deposits [illegible] they are found, the composition [illegible] themselves, and what they [illegible] to the age of the region under [illegible] process by which the several formations [illegible] ganized. The lecture cannot fail to be interesting.

MEETING OF ROAD SUPERVISORS.—The Judge and County Commissioners have agreed to call a meeting of all the new road supervisors whose terms terminate in this city and who [illegible] serve the ensuing year, at the Court House on [illegible] o'clock next Tuesday, the [illegible]. This meeting is to be held for the purpose of [illegible] and mutual understanding [illegible] performing the service of supervisors during the year, with a view to the promotion of efficiency and economy.

HALLO! HOW'S THIS?—We learn that Sir F. [illegible] cellency has appointed J. K. Wiley, of this city, Brig. Gen. of the 2d Brigade O. V. M. in place of Gen. Hall, resigned. What's the matter with Hannah? Verily, though, Joseph's [illegible] thickening upon him. First, a member of the Metropolitan Police, with [illegible] prospective uniform of [illegible] and now a Brig. Gen. of State militia with uniform of blue and brass buttons. Joseph is going it.

THROUGH BY RAIL.—The waters of the Willamette having "assuaged" at the place where the railroad was overflowed, near Oregon City, both the morning and evening trains of yesterday made through trips. Yesterday morning the [illegible] was still submerged by about two feet, but the water will not reach that depth of water without difficulty. It is hoped that before the next forty days or forty nights of rain, this part of the track will be elevated above high water mark.

MASONIC.—Past Grand Master Wm. Troupe, of Washington Territory will organize the first Masonic Lodge in Kalama, on Thursday evening next. W. H. Troupe, W. M. [illegible] W., Wm. Foy, J. W. General Sprague has offered the fraternity two lots upon which to erect a hall, and a Masonic building will be erected during the coming summer.

TRIAL OF A POLICE OFFICER.—One of the [illegible] fine officers—Mr. Norton—was tried before Justice Moreland yesterday on a charge of assault and battery preferred by a man whom Norton had arrested a day or two ago, and in doing so struck him with a cane or billy. The evidence was heard and the case taken under advisement by Mr. Moreland.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 22, 1871.

CITY.

PRESENTATION.—George Washington Stroud, late Mayor of Salem, is Mail Agent on the Oregon and California Railroad, between Portland and [illegible]. Sam Wisans is a conductor on one of [illegible] reputed among his fellow employes and the traveling public to be a first-rate fellow, [illegible] of the first mortar. These two individuals [illegible] very conspicuously yesterday morning in a presentation scene, in which Stroud, late Mayor, was spokesman for the parties presenting, and made the usual "few eloquent and appropriate remarks," and Wisans being the surprised and overcome recipient, who responded "briefly and feelingly with thanks," etc. George was on the morning down train; Sam on the morning [illegible]. They met, not by chance, but according to time and schedule, and while the two trains [illegible] for a moment, Sam was inveigled into one of the baggage cars where he was confronted by George and a "few friends," the latter having been posted on what was to follow, and instructed [illegible] at the proper places. Sam being fairly [illegible] and not able to make his escape, George planted his portly presence in a commanding posture, in front of his victim, and whistling [illegible]," spoke thusly:

"Sam Sir—I am delegated by a large number of very respectable gentlemen (including myself), who, though not related to you by blood or marriage, have yet had relations with you in a [illegible] or social way, along this line of railroad, to present to you this trifle of jewelry (here, George fumbled in his right-hand vest pocket, and brought forth an elegant gold pin, bearing a conductor's badge) as a token of their high esteem for you as a gentlemanly gentleman, and your unquestionable talent as a railroad conductor. We hope you will accept this little token with the same resignation and fortitude that either of us would exhibit if we were in your shoes. [Applause from the boys.] Now, Sam, put it on and wear it—wear it proudly, but don't let it fool you into being too proud to know your old friends, Sam. Remember your parents, by which I mean your father and mother, though honest were respectable, and [illegible] the matter with the rest of us. [Applause from a one-eyed man who [illegible] to see the point.] The American [illegible]."

Here the applause became general and deafening, amid which both the locomotive whistles [illegible] going, and if George made any more [illegible], it was forever lost to human ears, though it may be recorded above. George declared his suspicion that there was some design in [illegible] of whistles.

[illegible] Sam replied. He said, "Well, [illegible] and the other respectable gentlemen [illegible] my thanks, and—and—and—pshaw! I don't know anything about this speech-making [illegible], but I'll stand the peanuts." (Applause and more whistling, during which the appreciative spectators dispersed and the trains pursued their respective journeys.) George insists that he would have made a speech that would have done him credit if he had had a fair chance. There is no doubt of it.

THE TROUBLES OF GETTING A WITNESS.—The Statesman of yesterday has the following account of the pursuit and capture of a witness: "The U. S. Marshal has had some difficulty in [illegible] a witness needed in some liquor prosecution [illegible] here, and came up the other [illegible] and put under bonds [illegible], Paul Ob[illegible], S. Adolph and Wesley [illegible], for their interest in the disappearance of [illegible] a young man wanted for his testimony [illegible] the U. S. Court. Our friend Wes[illegible] is the boy's uncle, and only seems to [illegible] by having money left with him to [illegible] to his nephew. The young man, Morris [illegible], received $50, it seems, to [illegible] himself, and [illegible] Wagnon, who is also arrested, was [illegible] to take him off in his wagon, which he [illegible] him back in the woods, about five miles from Aurora. The U. S. Marshal, T. G. [illegible], Esq., left the matter of serving the subpoena with One Arm Brown, who followed the [illegible] until he reached young Graves and escorted him on foot to Oregon City, seventeen miles, then took him by the cars to Portland and [illegible] him to the U. S. Marshal. Brown had [illegible] and ran many risks in catching [illegible], but he generally finds what he goes [illegible] been put to his mettle by hearing [illegible] young Graves couldn't be found, [illegible] to hunt him up."

[illegible] FOR PORTLAND.—The following [illegible] who sailed per steamer [illegible], for Portland: A Nathan, [illegible], S H Fletcher, Dr C W Knight, [illegible], G Skinner, U S A, M Thompson, Mrs [illegible] and two children, L Boyer, U S A, S [illegible], J Barrows, Mrs Mary Meyer, Miss [illegible], Mrs S S Boyer, G Gurt and wife, H [illegible], J W Springer, Jos Meyer, A B Crossman, [illegible] B Perry, W T Webber, Henry Way, [illegible] G A Ladd, M Hutchinson, E Han[illegible], B Taber, Mrs Rev A Myers and [illegible], C H Messerdorfer, C Erickson, J G [illegible], Geo J Holmes, W Currier, Thos Barry, [illegible], John McFaron, John Douglas, C [illegible], E Edwin, L Gosrelin, C McKinney, S [illegible], wife and boy, Miss Wass and child, Mrs [illegible], Mrs E A Williams and boy, Mrs D [illegible] boy, Miss E A Lunn, J W French, [illegible], G L Story, Murton G Lury, J [illegible], Mrs G Levy, Mrs J McNamara, Mrs G [illegible], Miss E Robeson, Mrs McIntyre, A [illegible], A J Vaughn, B Vaughn, M Weiss, M S [illegible], A Rosenheim, J McFarlan, wife and [illegible], F Currie, S Abrahams, H [illegible], M I Ading and wife, J H Dowling, J S [illegible], W E [illegible], J A Rippetoe, Wm [illegible], Jas Larowe and wife, Mrs H [illegible], J McKenny, C F Hayward, J F Treman, [illegible], wife and child, Mrs J H Downing, W F Crosby and 96 in the steerage.

[illegible] OF GEOLOGY.—Rev. Thos [illegible] and concluding lecture on the geology of the great basin east of the Cascade [illegible] will be delivered at Philharmonic Hall. It will be remembered that in the first lecture [illegible] only placed before his audience [illegible] of the geological formations of the Pacific coast, promising to descend to details [illegible]. This evening therefore, we may expect to hear more particularly of the animal [illegible] fossil remains found embedded between [illegible] strata, the deposits in which they are found, the composition of the rocks [illegible], and what they all teach in relation to the age of the region under review and the [illegible] by which the several formations were organized. The lecture cannot fail to be interesting.

[illegible] OF ROAD SUPERVISORS.—The Judge and County Commissioners have agreed to call a meeting of all the new road supervisors whose [illegible] in this city and who intend to serve the ensuing year, at the Court House at ten [illegible] next Tuesday, the 28th. The meeting is to be held for the purpose of effecting a general [illegible] understanding about the manner of [illegible] the service of supervisors during the year, with a view to the promotion of efficiency and economy.

[illegible] How's This?—We learn that His Excellency has appointed J. R. Wiley, of this city, Brig. Gen. of the 2d Brigade O. V. M. in place of Gen. Hall, resigned. What's the matter with Joseph? Verily, though, Joseph's honors are [illegible] upon him. First, a member of the [illegible] Police, with rank of Captain, and [illegible] uniform of natty blue with brass buttons, and next a Brig. Gen. of State militia with uniform of blue and brass buttons. Joseph is [illegible].

THROUGH BY RAIL.—The waters of the Willamette having "assuaged" at the place where the railroad was overflowed, near Oregon City, both the morning and evening trains of yesterday made through trips. Yesterday morning the railroad was still submarine by about two feet, but the cars waded that depth of water without difficulty. It is hoped that before the next forty days and forty nights of rain, this part of the track will be raised above high water mark.

MASONIC.—Past Grand Master Wm. Troupe of Washington Territory will organize the first Masonic Lodge in Kalama, on Thursday evening next. W. H. Troupe, W. M.; L. VanVleet, S. W.; Wm. Foy, J. W. General Sprague has donated the fraternity two lots upon which to erect a hall, and a Masonic building will be erected during the coming summer.

TRIAL OF A POLICE OFFICER.—One of the police officers—Mr. Norton—was tried before Justice [illegible] yesterday on a charge of assault and battery preferred by a man whom Norton had arrested a day or two ago, and in doing so had struck him with a cane or "billy." The evidence was heard and the case taken under advisement by Mr. McLeod.

RAILROAD MEETING.

Pursuant to notice, the incorporators of the "Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad Co.," met at the Police court room last evening. There were present Messrs. M. S. Burrell, Jacob Stitzel, E. M. Barton, C. Bills, E. J. Northrup, William Masters, E. Corbett, James Steel, W. W. Chapman, A. Myers, R. Wilcox, Charles M. Carter, W. H. Watkins, D. W. Williams, J. M. Gilman, Henry L. Pittock, Erasmus D. Shattuck, A. P. Dennison, T. J. Carter, John M. Breck. E. J. Northrup was elected Chairman, and Jacob Stitzel, Secretary.

Colonel Chapman explained the object of the meeting. He had examined the law and thought, although the company had empowered him to act as agent, for the safety of the company there ought to be an expression by vote of the corporators making him agent and recording it. He also thought that action should be taken to appoint a committee on correspondence to open correspondence with the people interested along the line, and insure united action instead of working in detached companies for the same end. We had started the ball, and he wished that all along the route the people would keep it rolling, making it bigger and bigger, until success should be accomplished. He believed that this route would be more popular without than either of the other roads are with the Government grants and aid.

Remarks were made by Erasmus D. Shattuck, A. P. Dennison and others.

The following resolutions were offered by Judge Shattuck, and adopted separately:

Resolved, That a Committee on Correspondence—consisting of five—be appointed by the chair, charged with the duty of corresponding with parties along the route, to promote united action in favor of the enterprise, and to prepare, publish, and to circulate facts and arguments in support thereof.

Resolved, That a committee of three on Finances be appointed by the chair to raise money to defray necessary expenses incurred in presenting to capitalists the advantages and importance of the road, the same to be under the direction of the Committee on Correspondence.

Resolved, by the corporators of the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake R. R. Co., that W. W. Chapman, one of said corporators, be and he is authorized to open books in Oregon, and also in any other of the United States and in the Territories, and to receive subscriptions to the capital stock of this corporation.

The chairman, upon suggestion of D. W. Williams, reserved the appointment of the committees named in the first two resolutions until to-morrow, in order that gentlemen might be selected who would be willing to serve, and take active interest in the enterprise.

On the last resolution the vote was recorded by yeas and nays, the yeas being 19; nays, none.

The meeting then adjourned subject to the call of the Chairman.

AMUSEMENTS.

CONCERT.—There was a fine audience at Philharmonic Hall last evening. The performances were generally of a pleasing character, while some of them were of a high order of excellence. The overture "Poet et Payson," was exceedingly well performed, as were several quartettes, by Barr, Monteith, Hitchcock and Corinne Mercier, or Mr. Stinson. Blanche Mercier sang "Up in a Balloon" very prettily, for which she received an encore, and she then sang "Topsy" with great applause. Mr. J. H. Stinson performed a violin solo, selections from Beriot, and was called out again with applause that was almost deafening. Miss Corinne Mercier displayed a fine alto voice in "Come where my Love lies Dreaming." Mr. Monteith sang several airs with fine effect. There were several other performances which might be mentioned with credit to the singers. The most artistic performance, however, of the evening was the vocal solo by Miss Octavia Beatrice Mercier—from Ettore Barili's opera of "Carlotta de la Mesicano." In this she exhibited an extraordinary range of voice and perfect command of it. In the closing strain she reached with a clear tone, D sharp above what is known as the vocal high key, A. Upon retiring she was applauded long and most enthusiastically. The call for her return was prolonged till Mr. Hitchcock was obliged to come out and announce that Miss Mercier's physician has positively forbidden her to sing more than once, and even then the audience gave it up reluctantly.

ORO FINO THEATER.—The drama of "The Deaf Man of the Village" was presented last evening to a good house, and in a very satisfactory manner. It was followed by the usual vocal and terpsichorian varieties. To-night the same play will be reproduced, and the entertainment will close with the very popular and laughable comedy of "Toodles"—Mr. and Mrs. Bates both appearing.

SUICIDE.—About 11 o'clock Monday night Joseph McBrien, late proprietor of the Pearl Saloon committed suicide, as is supposed, by jumping off the ferryboat into the river at the foot of Stark street. The watchman on the boat says he saw some one go by the door of the engine room, and in a moment heard a plunge in the water. Going out to the end of the boat he saw some light colored object come up to the surface, and sink again and he saw it no more. Language used by Joe a few [illegible] to the belief that he contemplated self-destruction, and he is missing. It is therefore concluded that it was he who jumped overboard from the boat. There had been for some time some domestic troubles on his mind, which strengthens the belief that he has taken his own life, though there is not so far as we can learn any positive evidence.

LARGE PASSENGER LIST.—The morning train brought down yesterday the largest passenger list, it is said, that has passed over the road in one train since the close of the State Fair, last fall. Among them were quite a number of people of Linn and Marion counties, who were summoned here by the U. S. District Court for various purposes.

LARGE IMMIGRATION OF MASONS.—The morning train from Albany and Salem yesterday, brought down a large number of Masons, who came to attend some Masonic convocation. They were a pretty good looking lot, upon the average, and no additional police force is considered necessary.

RELIGIOUS.—Services and lecture in the Unitarian Church will be Thursday evening instead of Wednesday.

FRESH CLAMS.—A superb lot of Fresh Clams was received last night from Clatsop Beach, at QUINN'S, on Washington street. 1t

Do you desire a handsome Suit of Clothing? If you do, go to Isaac Barman, corner First and Alder streets, Odd Fellows Temple.

J. O'NEIL & Co. have just received and opened one of the best assorted lots of Gents' Furnishing Goods and Clothing, ever brought into this city, consisting of all kinds of Clothing, Collars, Cuffs, Gloves, Ties, Hosiery, and a large invoice of the Star Shirt, the best fitting and best made Shirt now worn. Their goods are of the latest styles and choicest patterns. Persons wishing spring goods and styles should not fail to give them a call. They cannot but be pleased with both their goods and prices.

Their stock is very large, and their goods of the best quality, and latest styles. Messrs. Kohn & Fishel buy their goods in large quantities, consequently, get them at low rates and can afford to sell cheap, which they intend to do.

They respectfully invite their friends and patrons to give them a call.

CATARRH is a common disease, so common that snuffling and "hawking" meets you at every turn. Your foot slips in its nasty discharge, in the omnibus or in church, and its stench disgusts at the lecture or the concert. The proprietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offers $500 reward for a case of Catarrh he cannot cure. Sold by druggists, or send sixty cents to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 133 Seneca street, Buffalo, N. Y., and you will receive it by mail. Beware of counterfeits and worthless imitations. The genuine has Dr. Pierce's private U. S. Government Stamp on it.

MILITARY MAPS.—Colonel A. P. Dennison, Adjutant General of Oregon, has lately received from the United States War Department a lot of very finely lithographed maps, illustrating the operations of the armies of the Potomac and James, from May 4th, 1864, to April 9th, 1865. The whole country over which the armies operated during the time specified is shown upon one map, and then each particular noted battle-field is shown upon a separate map. Not only are the positions of the opposing lines noted, but every feature of the intervening grounds and surrounding country—the clearings, timbered country, streams, villages, hills, gulches, residences, railroads, etc., with distances accurately noted. A study of these maps must certainly afford a more accurate idea of the military situations of that period than could be obtained from the most elaborate descriptions by "correspondents in the field," or "special artists on the spot." Col. Dennison, for the purpose of preserving these maps, has caused them to be neatly and substantially bound. He will take pleasure in showing them to any one who may be curious about such matters.

Trust what Time has Sanctioned.

The maxim that the voice of the people is the voice of the divinity, may in some cases be open to doubt, but the testimony of honest and enlightened witnesses extending through a series of years, and all to the same purport is worthy of credence, admits of no question. Upon such testimony the reputation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as an antidote and cure for many ailments is based. During the twenty years that it has been before the world, innumerable preparations intended to compete with it, have gone up like rockets and came down the extinguished sticks. Meanwhile the progress of that incomparable tonic has been swift and steady—always upward and onward like the eagle's flight. Its introduction produced a revolution in therapeutics, and it proved to be one of those salutary revolutions that cannot go backwards. To-day Hostetter's Bitters is one of the most popular remedies in christendom, and commands a larger sale than any other medicinal preparation, domestic or imported, on this side of the Atlantic. As a cure for dyspepsia, bilious disorders, nervous affections, general debility, and as a preventive of epidemic fevers, it takes precedence of every other remedy. This fact should teach the ambitious country dealers who endeavor to foist their local abortions on the public in its stead, how futile their small attempts to cajole the community must necessarily be. Where the game fish have failed there is no chance for the "suckers."

Incidents of the War.

A POINT OF OBSERVATION.

The London Telegraph's correspondent at Versailles:—There is a cunning little "hole in the wall, or observatory—I must not even hint where—scooped out of the solid rock in one of the heights overlooking Paris from the southwest, with loopholes bored outwards through its face, (several feet thick in some parts), a stove, table and chairs stowed away within its recess, and not unfrequently, a case of wine and box of cigars somewhere about it handy for the refection of its few and highly privileged visitors. From this cosy little nest the chief of artillery, the royal princes and those whom they permit on rare occasions to accompany them, command a magnificent view of Paris itself, and especially of the three or four lines in its girdle of forts which lie as it were, at their feet. Thence can be plainly seen on a fine day, almost without the aid of a field glass, the effect of the Prussian shells upon the outer defences of the city, and the evidences of their stunning power pitilessly directed upon the faubourgs within the enceinte and upon the town itself.

EXTRAORDINARY MARCHING.

The Times correspondent with Prince Frederick Charles writes: Not only in the grand operations, but even in such details as riding, carrying messages and conveyance of [illegible] the Prussians are accustomed to do hard work well and cheerfully. The Ninth Corps made a march last month which is certainly one of the greatest, if not the greatest, achievements of the kind in history. It has been reiterated from so many quarters that it would be absurd not to believe it. During [illegible]ty-four hours of the 16th and 17th of December this corps marched twelve Prussian [illegible] about fifty-four English. Twenty [illegible] a day for a whole corps—infantry, [illegible] and artillery—have been frequently [illegible], and there is not the slightest sign of [illegible] in the army. I repeat that men [illegible] in first rate condition. They [illegible] would be positively [illegible] false. No doubt many [illegible] have been killed off, but that does [illegible] alter the fact that there exists a German army which can undergo all these fatigues and remain stronger than ever, that it is in the highest possible state of discipline, and is [illegible] of good family, yet not generally [illegible] enough to make any other career than [illegible].

[illegible] TROOPS.

The Times [illegible] the [illegible] chief [illegible] The [illegible] some men would [illegible] able, the thick underwood was traversed [illegible] deep narrow lanes, [illegible] with steep banks [illegible] very faintly [illegible] Since I have been campaigning with the German armies I have not seen any more [illegible] evidence of the [illegible] of the French levies unparticipant warfare [illegible] any other kind of warfare than this scene presented; that an [illegible] have driven them out of the whole [illegible] had been sheep, and should [illegible] advance with impunity along the [illegible] lanes which afford the only means of traversing the difficult [illegible], has struck their enemies with astonishment. There [illegible] no doubt that had these [illegible] with red Indians or New Zealanders, the German loss would have been much heavier. [illegible] painful to write thus of a people whose bravery has become a proverb in Europe, and who have made the [illegible] of military [illegible] successful occupation, but there can be no possible advantage [illegible] those whose [illegible] in any way connected with them, [illegible] perpetuate a delusion which has already been so fruitful of disaster. Whatever may be said of the Imperial armies or those first Republican troops who at the outset inspired [illegible] hope, three or two day's fighting has [illegible] that the mob new levies are utterly contemptible from a military point of view, and are inferior to any [illegible] organized army with which the [illegible] have yet come into collision."

HOW THE GERMAN ARMY IS FED.

What it took to feed the German army in France may be inferred from the following:

In the space of twenty-four hours each [illegible] bar [illegible] 50 ewt. of bacon 18 cwt. of salt; [illegible] 8 cwt. hay; 2,500 quarts of spirits, and 3,500 ounces of orange essence for a tincture taken with the spirits [illegible] repast add 20 cwt of tobacco 1,100,000 ordinary cigars, 50,000 officers cigars for each ten days. If you multiply these figures by 24, or perhaps 25, you have the sum-total of a single day, or, as regards tobacco, of ten days of the troops in the field.

How Artificial Ivory is Made.—A scientific journal describes the process of making artificial ivory from rubber. Two pounds of pure rubber are dissolved in thirty-two pounds of chloroform and the solution is saturated with a stream of ammonia gas. When the rubber has been completely bleached, the admission of the gas is interrupted, and the mass is transferred into a vessel provided with a stirrer, in which it is washed with hot water until the bleaching agent has been entirely removed. During this operation the temperature may be increased to 185 deg. Fahr., in order to evaporate the chloroform, which, by conducting it into an apparatus of condensation, may again be made use of. The remaining mass forms a kind of a froth, which, being pressed out, dried, and again treated with a small quantity of chloroform, is finally obtained as a consistent paste. This paste is now mixed with a sufficient quantity of finely pulverized phosphate of lime or carbonate of zinc, until it assumes the appearance of moist flour. In this condition it is [illegible] leaves it sufficiently [illegible] planed, filed, and [illegible] to imitate corals, pearls, [illegible] it is only nec[illegible] colors previously [illegible] formed.

[illegible] a Prussian officer [illegible] capture of Orleans [illegible] walking through a deserted street and on coming in front of what had formerly been one of the most popular cafe chantants of the town, but which was now supposed to be closed, he heard the deep, vibrant tones of a piano, played upon apparently, by some master hand. There was also heard in the intervals a tramping of many feet, betokening a large audience. Curious to know how such a thing could happen so soon after the confusion into which the town had been thrown by the recent battle, he entered and found seated on [illegible] a Prussian train soldier, while all around him in the vast audience hall—which had been brilliantly lighted up for the occasion and pressing close up to the platform were his charges, a great troop of horses who filled the house and stood with pointed ears and erect heads eagerly listening to the music!

A fourteen year old girl was a witness in a recent Indiana divorce suit, and a portion of her evidence was as follows: "Father got mad because mother starched his stockings. Mother picked up the stockings and hit father on the head with them; it sounded like sticks of wood. Father then stuffed a hot [illegible] mother's throat, and then mother [illegible] on him, and twisted the dog's [illegible] him bite harder."

LAND DEPARTMENT

OREGON & CALIFORNIA RAILROAD

COMPANY.

SALEM, OREGON, Oct. [illegible]

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT is [illegible] for the information of all concerned:

First—Congress has granted to the Company all alternate sections of the public lands designated by odd numbers within a distance of thirty miles on each side of the railroad, excepting lands to which a pre-emption or homestead claim had attached prior to the withdrawal by Government of the lands co-terminus with the first division of located line from East Portland to Jefferson, at 12 M. February 16, 1870. The second division of located line from Jefferson to a point six miles south of Roseburg, May, 1870, and from the last named point to the California line, 1870.

Second—Persons who have valid pre-emption or homestead claims to any tract on an odd numbered section can purchase the same from the Railroad Company at the Government price of $1 25 per acre in greenbacks, and upon very favorable terms, if they so desire, by filing an abandonment of their claim in the U. S. Land Office, blanks for which will be furnished by the Land Agent of the Company. Such purchase from the Company has these advantages over a purchase from the Government: The party can have the land if necessary; he can sell the land or mortgage it; he is saved the payment of lawyers' or agents' fees, and expenses of witnesses to go to the Land Office to "prove up" his claim; he can get his title [illegible] in less time, and he can buy on credit at a low rate of interest.

Third—No sales will be made by the Company until the land is listed over to it, by the United States Land Commissioner and Secretary of the Interior.

Purchasers are thus [illegible] and that the title they obtain is perfect. I. R. MOORES, Ordnance and Quartermasters' Accounts adjusted, and Certificates of Non-Indebtedness procured for discharged officers.

I also prosecute claims for Arrears of Pay and Pensions, Prize Money, Commutations of Rations while prisoners of war, Indemnity for Lost Clothing, Restoration of Suspended Pensions, Duplicate Land Warrants, Land Patents and Treasury Certificates and all other classes of Government Claims.

I will be pleased to correspond with those who are engaged or desire to engage in obtaining such claims and also other claims against the United States. I will send them all necessary forms and instructions, and keep them advised of all laws and decisions relating to claims, and my fees on such claims will be but one-half the fees charged claimants.

Incidents of the War.

A POINT OF OBSERVATION.

The London Telegraph's correspondent at Versailles:—There is a cunning little "hole in the wall, or observatory—I must not even hint where—scooped out of the solid rock in one of the heights overlooking Paris from the southwest, with loopholes bored outwards through its face, (several feet thick in some parts), a stove, table and chairs stowed away within its recess, and not unfrequently, a case of wine and box of cigars somewhere about it handy for the refection of its few and highly privileged visitors. From this cosy little nest the chief of artillery, the royal princes and those whom they permit on rare occasions to accompany them, command a magnificent view of Paris itself, and especially of the three or four links in its girdle—of forts which lie as it were, at their feet. Thence can be plainly seen on a fine day, almost without the aid of a field glass, the effect of the Prussian shells upon the outer defences of the city, and the evidences of their stunning power pitilessly directed upon the faubourgs within the enciente and upon the town itself.

EXTRAORDINARY MARCHING.

The Times correspondent with Prince Frederick Charles writes: Not only in the grand operations, but even in such details as riding and carrying messages and endurance of fatigue, the Prussians are accustomed to do hard work well and cheerfully. The Ninth Corps made a march last month which is certainly one of the greatest, if not the greatest, achievements of the kind in history. It has been reiterated from so many quarters that it would be absurd not to believe it. During twenty-four hours of the 16th and 17th of December this corps marched twelve Prussian miles, or about fifty-four English. Twenty-five miles a day for a whole corps—infantry, cavalry and artillery—have been frequently marched, and there is not the slightest sign of wearing out in the army. I repeat that men and horses are in first rate condition. They are so well fed that they would be positively fat but for the daily exercise. No doubt many weak ones have been killed off, but that does not alter the fact that there exists a German army which can undergo all these fatigues and remain stronger than ever; that it is in the highest possible state of discipline, and is led by men of good family, yet not generally rich enough to make any other career than that of arms.

WEAKNESS OF THE NEW FRENCH TROOPS.

The Times' correspondent with the Duke of Mecklenburg's army, after describing a passage of its marches, continues: "The position in the hands of a few resolute men would have been almost impregnable, the thick underwood was traversed by deep narrow lanes, admirable cover for men, while steep banks and deep ditches gave every facility for concealment and surprise. Since I have been campaigning with the German armies I have not seen any more conclusive evidence of the utter incapacity of the French levies or partisan warfare, or, indeed, any other kind of warfare, than this scene presented; that an inferior force should have driven them out of the whole woods as if they had been sheep, and should now be able to advance with impunity along the narrow lanes which afford the only means of traversing the difficult country, has struck their enemies with astonishment. There can be no doubt that had these forests been filled with red Indians or New Zealanders, the German loss would have been much heavier. It is painful to write thus of a people whose bravery has become a proverb in Europe, and who have made the pursuit of military glory their successful occupation; but there can be no possible advantage either to them or to those whose fortunes are in any way connected with them, to perpetuate a delusion which has already been so fruitful in disaster. Whatever may be said of the imperial armies, or those first Republican troops who at the outset inspired many with hope, these two day's fighting has made it plain to us that the last raw levies are utterly contemptible from a military point of view, and are far inferior to anything professing to be an organized army with which the Germans have yet come into collision."

HOW THE GERMAN ARMY IS FED.

What it took to feed the German army in France may be inferred from the following: In the space of twenty-four hours each corps d'armee consumes 18,000 loaves, weighing 3 lbs each; 120 cwt of rice or pearl barley; 70 oxen or 120 cwt of bacon; 18 cwt of salt; 40 cwt of coffee; 12 cwt of oats; 8 cwt of [illegible] ,500 quarts of spirits; and 3,500 ounces [illegible] essence, or some other bitter tincture [illegible] with the spirits. To this gigantic [illegible] add 60 cwt of tobacco, 1,100,000 ordinary cigars, 50,000 officers' cigars for each ten days. If you multiply these figures by 24, or perhaps 25, you have the sum total of a single day, or, as regards tobacco, of ten days [illegible] the troops in the field.

HOW ARTIFICIAL IVORY IS MADE.—A scientific journal describes the process of making artificial ivory from rubber. Two pounds of pure rubber are dissolved in thirty-two pounds of chloroform, and the solution is saturated with a current of ammonia gas. When the rubber has been completely bleached, the admission of the gas is interrupted, and the mass is transferred into a vessel provided with a stirrer, in which it is washed with hot water until the bleaching agent has been entirely removed. During this operation the temperature may be increased to 185 deg. Fahr., in order to evaporate the chloroform, which, by conducting it into an apparatus of condensation, may again be made use of. The remaining product forms a kind of a froth, which, being pressed out, dried, and again mixed with a small quantity of chloroform, is finally obtained as a consistent paste. This paste is now mixed with a sufficient quantity of finely pulverized phosphate of lime or carbonate of zinc, until it assumes the appearance of moist flour. In this condition it is [illegible] which leaves it sufficiently hard to be turned, planed, filed, and [illegible]. In order to imitate corals, pearls, [illegible] &c., it is only necessary [illegible] the paste with the desired colors previously to its being compressed.

A H[illegible] A. [illegible].—A Prussian officer relates [illegible] shortly after the recapture of Or[illegible] he happened to be passing through a deserted street and on coming in front of what had formerly been one of the most popular Cafe Chantants of the town, but which was now supposed to be closed, he heard the deep, vibrant tones of a piano, played upon apparently, by some master hand. There was also heard in the intervals a tramping of many feet, betokening a large audience. Curious to know how such a thing could happen so soon after the confusion into which the town had been thrown by the recent battle, he entered and found seated on a music stool a Prussian train soldier, while all around him in the vast audience hall—which had been brilliantly lighted up for the occasion—and pressing close up to the platform, were his charges, a great troop of horses who filled the house and stood with pointed ears and erect heads eagerly listening to the music!

A fourteen year old girl was a witness in a recent Indiana divorce suit, and a portion of her evidence was as follows: "Father got mad because mother starched his stockings. Mother picked up the stockings and hit father on the head with them; it sounded like sticks of wood. Father then stuffed a hot cake down mother's throat, and then mother set the dog on father, and twisted the dog's tail to make him bite harder."

LAND DEPARTMENT OREGON & CALIFORNIA RAILROAD COMPANY.

SALEM, OREGON, October 22, 1870.

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT IS MADE FOR information of all concerned:

First—Congress has granted to the Company all alternate sections of the public lands designated by odd-numbers within a distance of thirty miles on each side of the railroad; excepting lands to which a pre-emption or homestead claim had attached prior to the withdrawal by Government of the lands co-terminous with the first division of located line from East Portland to Jefferson, at 12 M. February 16, 1870. The second division of located line from Jefferson to a point six miles south of Roseburg, May, 1870, and from the last named point to the California line, 1870.

Second—Persons who have valid pre-emption or homestead claims to any tract on an odd numbered section can purchase the same from the Railroad Company at the Government price of $1 25 per acre in greenbacks, and upon very favorable terms, if they so desire, by filing an abandonment of their claim in the U. S. Land Office, blanks for which will be furnished by the Land Agent of the Company. Such purchase from the Company has these advantages over a purchase from the Government: The party can leave the land if necessary; he can sell the land or mortgage it; he is saved the payment of lawyers' or agents' fees, and expenses of witnesses to go to the Land Office to "prove up" his claim; he can get his title perfect in less time, and he can buy on credit at a low rate of interest.

Third—No sales will be made by the Company until the land is listed over to it by the United States Land Commissioner and Secretary of the Interior.

Purchasers are thus assured that the title they obtain is perfect. I. R. MOORES,
